PARTY STUNTS THAT DON'T LEAVE STAFF RED-FACED

This year, why not step away from the traditionally boozy Christmas party and treat your staff to an action-packed, wholesome alternative at the Australian Stunt Academy. Colin's Christmas party groups will participate in team building, trust exercises, physical team challenges and some entertaining Stunt Academy games.

"It's a real break in tradition from the annual staff Christmas party over a keg of beer and a case of wine or dinner at a fancy restaurant," says Col.

"Our parties are about fun, and stepping outside your comfort zone in a way that will leave you feeling proud of your achievements, rather than embarrassed about your behaviour when you get to the office on Monday."

The Stunt Academy Christmas party agenda includes a full or half day of stunt training, including abseiling, commando style obstacle courses, gladiator training, stage combat, sword fights and high falls from the Stunt Academy's 10 metre tower.

Colin says a perennial favourite at the Stunt Academy is 'flying on wire', which featured in the movie Crouching Tiger Hidden Dragon.

"We can tailor a package to suit your group and their preference for activities. We also film the main segments of the day and supply these on DVD as a memento," says Colin.

"We have an undercover facility where your group can come together at the completion of the course, enjoy a BBQ lunch or dinner, a few drinks if they wish, and share some laughs and stories about the day.

"The best part is they will all remember their Christmas party and their memories of it will be good ones," says Col.
